Komatsu America Distributors now members of Sourcewell
Cooperative pricing and purchasing program

South Plainfield, NJ, July 31, 2019 – These dealerships, Komatsu Northeast, Midlantic Machinery, Edward Ehrbar and Pine Bush Equipment announce that, as distributors of Komatsu America equipment, they can now support local government and public agencies who source contracts through Sourcewell (formerly the National Joint Powers Alliance), one of the largest governmental cooperative agencies in North America, representing more than 50,000 members, including government, education and nonprofit organizations.

As a result of Komatsu's national cooperative contract, Edward Ehrbar, Komatsu Northeast, Midlantic Machinery and Pine Bush Equipment can immediately offer local Sourcewell members access to pre-approved pricing, construction equipment and related accessories, attachments and supplies.

"Cooperative contracts through Sourcewell allow government entities to buy high-quality Komatsu equipment at a competitive price," said Ed Powers, Executive Vice President Sales, Komatsu Northeast. "With our commitment to customer uptime, service and parts availability, and Komatsu machines that set the standard for value, reliability and innovation, these entities can be confident about finishing jobs fast and keeping ownership costs low."

Komatsu America was awarded a contract to provide Sourcewell members with access to over 50 different products, as well as Komatsu's world-class technology, service and solutions. Sourcewell members will be supported by Komatsu's experienced distribution network, with more than 200 branches across North America.
